One of the almost 5,000 Walgreens locations.

Bekins is America's oldest van line, serving businesses and families since 1891. Boyer-Rosene is one of the largest agents in the Bekins system of 400 locations nationwide, and is among the largest shareholders in the van line. The president of Boyer-Rosene, Bruce Rosene, holds a seat on the Bekins board of directors. The close ties between the van line and the agency have provided Walgreens and other Fortune 500 companies with the short lines of communication that they require to respond to changing needs as quickly as possible.

Walgreens' substantial growth in recent years has created a significant need for employee relocation services as well as office relocation services at their corporate and regional offices, and equipment delivery needs at their stores around the country. To solve these requirements in the most cost-effective manner possible, the 104 year-old company chose Boyer-Rosene and Bekins.

Walgreens corporate headquarters campus in Deerfield Illinois..

Boyer-Rosene has moved over 400,000 square feet of office space at the Walgreens campus in Deerfield, and relocated hundreds of employee's families, as well as handled delivery and warehousing for equipment such as photo processing machines for thousands of Walgreens stores throughout the country. Each project is competitively bid out, and Boyer-Rosene has provided the most cost-effective solutions to meet the company's needs.
